The history of our school

It all began right after the war, when on 1 IX 1945 when the The High School for Adults in Opole was established with its headquarters at Gostawicka Street and then at 11 Bończyka Street. The first headmistress of our school was Dr. Stefania Mazurek, who directed it until 1950. It was the most difficult period in the history of the school and its principal. Everything was missing: textbooks, teaching aids, curricula. There was only the enthusiasm of teachers and students. In October 1950, harassed by constant curatorial visits and checks by the Security Service on charges of “inappropriate recruitment and use of religious practices”, Stefania Mazurek had to resign from her post. For the next 15 years - Józef Adamczyk, pre-war school teacher and secret teacher during the occupation, directed our school. Since 1975 the headmaster was Jan Cipior.

The history of our school

The school has changed the scope and profile of its activities many times. In the fifties it had several branches throughout the voivodeship, which later became independent; in 1981 the Part-time High School for Workers was incorporated into the existing Part-time High School, while the School Complex was established on 1 IX 1983, which included Part-time General High School, Primary School for Workers and the newly established Medical High School. Since 1 IX 1992 V General High School was added to the School Complex.

Wyszyński was born in the village of Zuzela in eastern Mazovia on the Bug River. During the Partitions of Poland, this area was part of the Russian Empire until the end of the First World War. When the Second World War broke out with the German invasion of Poland in 1939, he was forced to leave Włocławek seminary because he was wanted by the Gestapo: he had written articles critical of the Nazis in a Catholic journal. At the request of Bishop Kozal, he went to Laski near Warsaw. When the Warsaw Uprising broke out on 1 August 1944, he became chaplain of the insurgents' hospital in Laski, and of the Żoliborz military district of the Polish underground resistance organisation. In 1945, a year after the end of war in the area, Wyszyński returned to Włocławek, where he started a restoration project for the devastated seminary, becoming its rector as well as the chief editor of a Catholic weekly.

Just a year later, on 25 March 1946, Pope Pius XII appointed him Bishop of Lublin; he was consecrated by Cardinal August Hlond on 12 May that year. After Hlond's death on 22 October 1948, he was named Archbishop of Gniezno and Warsaw, and thus Primate of Poland, on 12 November 1948.

Beginning in 1953, a wave of persecution swept Poland. When the bishops continued their support for anti-Communist resistance, the government began holding mass trials and imprisoning priests, including Wyszyński, who had just been made cardinal. On 25 September 1953 he was imprisoned at Rywałd, and later placed under house arrest in Stoczek Klasztorny in Prudnik near Opole. He was released on 26 October 1956 following Polish October.

On 12 January 1953, Wyszyński was elevated to the rank of cardinal by Pope Pius XII.

Cardinal Wyszyński, often called the Primate of the Millennium, died on 28 May 1981 at the age of 79 of abdominal cancer. He is buried in St. John's Archcathedral in Warsaw.

We have a lot of amazing teachers who always try to explain the material in the best possible way. They calmly and patiently help students if they need it. You can always turn to them with a request, question or problem. They try to make our class time more pleasant and make the lessons interesting.

In the "Perspektywy" ranking of general secondary schools, general secondary schools were assessed using three criteria. These are: the school's successes in Olympiads, the results of the Matura exam in compulsory subjects and the results of the Matura exam in additional subjects. In the 2022 ranking, the Ranking Chapter analyzed the results of 1,256 general secondary schools (out of 2,270 operating in the country) that met the criteria for entering the Ranking, then announced a list of the 1000 best high schools. Secondary School No. V took 178th place and received a golden disc.
